THE FROG PRINCE

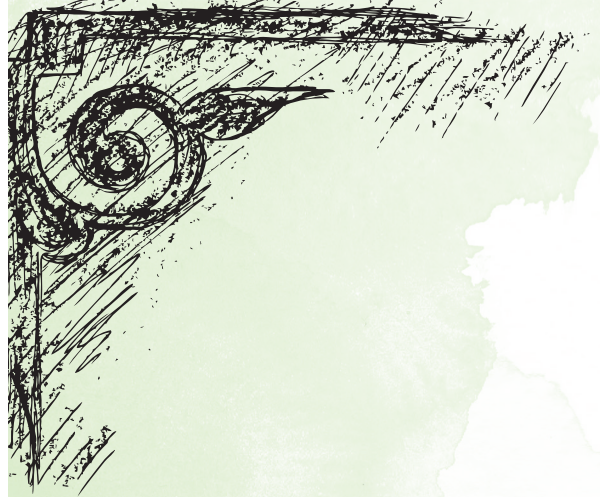

by M.G. Higgins

It's a beautiful summer day. I decide to go for a hike.

Of course I have my golden ball.
Yeah, it's a lame toy. But I love it.
I take it everywhere I go. It helps calm my nerves. People say I get overly excited. They may be right.

I follow the trail that leads to the forest. It is not far from my palace. That is where I live with my dad. He is a king, which makes me a princess.

It's a nice forest, not at all creepy. The trees are tall and green. The sun shines through the leaves. I walk for about an hour.

I come to a pond I have never seen before. It's a pretty spot and a good place to rest. So I sit on the bank. My golden ball is next to me.

After a while, I toss it into the air.

Up and down.

Up and down.

I'm just chilling, thinking about nothing.

WAY THROUGH

by Gail Herman

The bell rang. School was out for the day. Students made their way from the building. Most of them hurried off.

Two of the students were in no rush.
They had a routine.

Joe and Kate met at their spot. It was the bench by the front doors. They met there every day.

“Hey!” Kate said.

Joe had been waiting.

“Are you up for an adventure?” he asked. “There’s something I want you to see.”

The friends had met in kindergarten. Even then they had things in common. Other kids would be playing. Joe and Kate didn't join in.

Joe was missing part of one leg. He was born that way. It didn't stop him from doing things. With crutches he could get around.

But some things weren't easy. Like keeping up with other kids.

Kate wasn't that active herself. There were many reasons. Most of them were in her mind, Joe said.

But Kate knew how she felt. Heavy and clumsy.

Instructional Support Components

This guide contains instructional support for each book.

GENRE OVERVIEW AND LESSON PLAN

(one for each genre): Use these pages to introduce and discuss the genres in this set. Lessons are appropriate for whole class or small group instruction.

BOOK LESSON PLAN

(one for each book): Use these pages to introduce the books, to teach or review specific reading skills, and to introduce any special vocabulary in the books. Lessons are appropriate for whole class, small group, or individual instruction.

GUIDED READING QUESTIONS

(one for each book): Use these pages after the initial reading of the book. These questions allow for a deeper rereading of the book and an exploration of the book's issues and character dynamics. Questions are appropriate for whole class, small group, or individual instruction.

COMPREHENSION ACTIVITY

(one for each book): Use these pages to monitor comprehension and build reading skills. Activities are appropriate for paired or independent work.

BOOK QUIZ

(one for each book): Use these pages to assess comprehension. Quizzes are a mix of multiple-choice questions and one short-answer question.

Implementation Options

Soar is intended as a supplemental set of books for classroom use. The lesson plans and guided reading questions in this guide are designed for both small groups and individual students. Here are some options for implementation:

- Display the books as part of a classroom library and allow students to self-select titles. Use the reproducible activity and quiz for each book to monitor comprehension.
- Form small groups for genre exploration. Assign two or more books from a genre set to each small group. Use the genre overviews and lesson plans to introduce each genre. As each group completes a book, use the guided reading questions to spur discussion and to check comprehension. Have the groups complete a presentation on how the books represent the genre they are exploring. Use the reproducible activities and quizzes for the books to monitor comprehension.
- Use selected titles for intervention with teens reading below level. Assign a specific title to a group, and use the lesson plan in this guide to introduce the book and teach any special vocabulary. Have the students read the book independently or as part of a small group. Use the guided reading questions after the first read to build comprehension and encourage book discussion. Then assign the reproducible activity. Students may work independently or in pairs. Use the quiz to assess comprehension.

Genre: Folktales/Legends

DESCRIPTION Folklore is a collection of tales, traditions, and beliefs passed from person to person, often in spoken form. As our earliest form of popular fiction, folktales contain many of fiction's key elements: well-structured plots, imaginative characters, and moral lessons. Because their purpose is to entertain, folktales often include dramatic events and fantastical creatures, such as talking animals, fairies, and spirits. To aid storytellers' memory, these tales often include repeating plot elements (such as a character asked to do multiple tasks) and catchphrases (such as "once upon a time" and "happily ever after"). Legends are stories that are partly true or based on historic facts. The events in the stories, however, are often exaggerated. This set of books includes folktales from Africa and Russia, a fairy tale from Europe, and a nonfiction account of an Irish legend.

Overview of Books

A West African Folktale

A Fairy Tale from Europe

A Folktale from Russia

History of an Irish Legend

INTRODUCING THIS GENRE Write folktale on the board. Underline folk and explain that it means "people." Underline tale and ask students what the word means (story). Tell students that a folktale is a story passed along from person to person, often in spoken form. Point out that long before television, storytelling was an important form of entertainment. Many folktales include brave and heroic characters, exciting events, and fantasy elements, such as talking animals, magic spells, and made-up creatures like unicorns and dragons. Folktales often have satisfying endings in which the main character is said to live "happily ever after."

Show students the covers and titles of the four books in this set and have them guess what each one is about. Explain that the three fiction stories include talking animals and events that could not happen in real life. The nonfiction book describes an Irish legend that is popular on St. Patrick's Day.

PARTNER SHARE Assign partners and have pairs share any folktales or fairy tales they have read or know about. Then ask pairs to choose one of the fiction titles in this set. Have them describe the kinds of characters and events they might encounter in a book with this title.

Book: Anansi and the Stories

SYNOPSIS This book is a retelling of a classic African folktale about the trickster spider, Anansi. When Anansi offers to buy the sky god's stories, the sky god asks a high price in return: a python that can swallow a goat, a leopard with teeth like razors, a hornet with stings of fire, and a fairy that cannot be seen. Anansi uses his powers as a trickster to meet the challenge, while demonstrating the importance of determination.

PREPARING TO READ Show students the cover of the book. Read them the following preview:

A spider named Anansi wants to buy stories from the sky god, Nyame. The sky god sets a seemingly impossible price that no one has been able to pay. But Anansi has a few clever tricks in mind.

Have students turn to a partner and discuss what they think will happen in this book based on the preview. Then ask for volunteers to share their ideas with the class.

READING SKILL Point out that folktales are based on the traditions and beliefs of a group of people and are passed from person to person. Folktales often include a series of events the main character must go through in order to solve a problem. Words such as first, then, and soon help tell the order of events. Point out the sentences on page 15, explaining that they summarize Anansi's tasks, which are listed in the order he will do them. Knowing the order of the tasks makes it easier to recall and retell the story. Also explain that while reading a story, it is helpful to think of it in pieces—what happens in the beginning, middle, and end. Ask students to recall the beginning, middle, and end of a story they have read or know about.

VOCABULARY LESSON This book includes a few words that are at a higher level than the rest of the book but are necessary for communicating the content. Teach these words before students read the story. Write each word on the board. If appropriate, have the students write each word on an index card, and then trace the letters as they say the word.

curious wanting to know more about something gourd the dried, hard shell of a fruit

ordinary not special or different scowled frowned in an angry way

vanished passed quickly from sight

Have students work with partners or small groups to come up with sentences using each of the vocabulary words. Ask students to share the sentences with the class.

Anansi and the Stories

Genre: Folktales/Legends
Book: Anansi and the Stories

Guided Reading Questions

PAGES 3–5 What is Anansi like? (strong, smart, tricky, helpful)

PAGES 6–9 What problem does Anansi have? (He wants to share stories, but the sky god has them.)

PAGES 10–13 What does the sky god do that causes the clouds to shake? (He laughs.) Why? (He doesn't think Anansi will be able to pay his price for the stories.)

PAGES 14 AND 15 What do you think “teeth like razors” means? (sharp teeth)

PAGES 16 AND 17 Why does Nyame think Anansi is a “silly spider”? (He thinks Anansi will fail.)

PAGES 18–21 Which words help tell the sequence of events? (that night, first, then, the next morning, soon)

PAGES 22–27 How does Anansi trap Python? (He ties Python to a branch.)

PAGES 28 AND 29 Is the sky god happy with what Anansi has brought him? (no) How do you know? (The sky god says it's only a small part of the price.)

PAGES 30 AND 31 What is the second creature Anansi must catch? (the leopard)

PAGES 32 AND 33 What does Anansi's wife tell him to do? (dig a hole and cover it with branches)

PAGES 34–37 What does Leopard promise? (He won't eat Anansi if the spider helps him get out of the hole.)

PAGES 38–41 What steps does Anansi follow to catch Leopard? (ties a vine to a bent tree; tells Leopard to tie the vine to his tail; cuts the vine so Leopard flies up and hangs by his tail; wraps Leopard in vines)

PAGES 42 AND 43 Is the sky god happy when Anansi brings him the leopard? (no) How can you tell? (He frowns and complains that this is only part of his price.)

PAGES 44–49 What steps does Anansi follow to catch the hornets? (fills a gourd with water; pours it into the hornets' nest; tells hornets it's raining and to fly into the gourd to stay safe; traps them in the gourd)

PAGES 50–53 What is the last creature Anansi must catch? (a fairy that cannot be seen)

PAGES 54–61 What steps does Anansi follow to catch the fairy? (puts a sticky doll and food under a tree; gets the fairy to take the food; gets the fairy to stick to the doll; wraps thread around the fairy)

PAGES 62 AND 63 What does the sky god do when Anansi brings him the fairy? (gives Anansi the stories)

OVERALL QUESTIONS What do you think is the lesson of this tale? (Responses will vary.)

What did all the creatures Anansi caught have in common? (They fell for Anansi's tricks.)

On a scale of 1–10, with 1 being boring and 10 being extremely interesting, how would you rate this story? Why? (Responses will vary.)

Genre: Folktales/Legends

Book: The Language of the Birds

SYNOPSIS This book is a retelling of a Russian folktale about ordinary people and animals that demonstrate values, struggles, and courage. Ivan wants to be a good son, so he learns to communicate with birds in order to please his father. But the birds tell Ivan that he will become a king's son and his father will become a servant. When Ivan tells his parents the prediction, he is punished. But that doesn't stop Ivan from helping others who can benefit from his unique ability.

PREPARING TO READ Show students the cover of the book. Read them the following preview:

The Language of the Birds

Ivan wants to please his parents. When his father wishes to know what birds say, Ivan learns their language. Then Ivan gets news that upsets his father and is sent off to die. Instead, Ivan survives and tries to help others using his ability. Will it put him in more danger, or will he be treated like a hero?

Have students turn to a partner and discuss what kinds of information birds might share with us if they could talk. Then ask for volunteers to share their ideas with the class.

READING SKILL Explain that a cause is an event that makes something happen, and the effect is what happens as a result of that event. Write the headings Cause and Effect on the board. Under Cause, write: "It snows." Brainstorm with students effects that might happen as a result, and write them under Effect. Explain that sometimes one cause will have more than one effect. Similarly, sometimes multiple causes lead to one effect. Point out that stories are made up of cause-and-effect relationships. To find them, students can ask themselves: Why did an event happen? (cause). What happened? (effect). This can help them understand a story and its characters.

VOCABULARY LESSON This book includes a few words that are at a higher level than the rest of the book but are necessary for communicating the content. Teach these words before students read the story. Write each word on the board. If appropriate, have the students write each word on an index card, and then trace the letters as they say the word.

fate something that will happen in the future

gazed looked at something for a long time

masts poles on a ship that hold the sails

merchant a person who buys and sells items

paced walked back and forth
