Queen of the Dead

by M.G. Higgins

A woman with long, wavy blonde hair and green eyes is smiling gently. She is positioned in the foreground, with her face and hair filling most of the frame. Behind her, a vibrant turquoise waterfall cascades over rocks into a pool of clear turquoise water. The background is framed by a black border with pink and purple floral patterns on the left and right sides.

I love my mom.
I know that sounds lame.
But she is awesome.
Her name is Demeter.
She is goddess of the harvest.

We live with the other gods and goddesses.

Our home is called Mount Olympus.

Our palace is at the top,
among the clouds.

But Mom takes me all over the place. When she sits on her golden throne? I am next to her. When she goes to Earth?
I help her check her crops.

My name is Persephone.

I am a goddess too.

Most gods and goddesses are grumps. They are way too stern.
Not me. I am always happy.

I love to dance. When I dance,
I feel as light as air. Flowers spring up under my feet.

Mom smiles at me. "You are my sun and my moon."

My cheeks warm. "Aw, Mom."

EXCEL [3] Careers

A person in a dark suit is performing on stage, holding a knife aloft in their right hand. The scene is lit with vibrant, colorful stage lights in shades of blue, red, and yellow, creating a dramatic and energetic atmosphere. The person's face is partially obscured by the lighting and their own shadow.

The Dream

by M.G. Higgins

The diner is full. People scarf their food. They are in a hurry.

“Rico!” my boss calls.

“Table six needs water!”

Great. He just told me to clean table two. But I nod. I don’t want him mad. I need this job.

Things slow by eight. There are still lots of dishes to clear.
There are tables to clean.

But my mind has time to wander. It wanders to my best daydream.

I am on Star Maker, the TV music contest. I am up against 19 other singers.

I walk onto the stage. My hair is styled. My clothes are awesome. Girls scream when they see me.

The band plays. I start to sing.
My voice soars. It booms. It sighs. People hang on each note.

I hold the last note for a long time. I end with a smile. The crowd roars. They clap. They cheer. Even the judges jump to their feet.

Implementation Options

Excel is intended as a supplemental set of books for classroom use. The lesson plans and guided reading questions in this guide are designed for both small groups and individual students. Here are some options for implementation:

- Display the books as part of a classroom library and allow students to self-select titles. Use the reproducible activity and quiz for each book to monitor comprehension.
- Form small groups for genre exploration. Assign two or more books from a genre set to each small group. Use the genre overviews and lesson plans to introduce each genre. As each group completes a book, use the guided reading questions to spur discussion and to check comprehension. Have the groups complete a presentation on how the books represent the genre they are exploring. Use the reproducible activities and quizzes for the books to monitor comprehension.
- Use selected titles for intervention with teens reading below level. Assign a specific title to a group and use the lesson plan in this guide to introduce the book and teach any special vocabulary. Have the students read the book independently or as part of a small group. Use the guided reading questions after the first read to build comprehension and encourage book discussion. Then assign the reproducible activity. Students may work independently or in pairs. Use the quiz to assess comprehension.

Genre: Careers

DESCRIPTION For this level, we have included Careers as a theme within realistic fiction because it is such an important topic for teenagers. As graduation approaches, teens begin to seriously question what they will do with the rest of their lives. Deciding upon a career path is a major part of growing up. The goal of this genre is to explore some of the issues surrounding finding and getting a job. It explores key questions like “Which career is the best match for me?” and “How do I prepare to get the job I want?” The characters in these books are typical teens, discovering how to navigate the transition from high school student to working adult and making mistakes along the way.

Overview of Books

Pursuing a Dream Versus Going to College

Turning an Unexpected Skill into a Career

Importance of Preparing for a Job Interview

Tips for Finding the Right Career

INTRODUCING THIS GENRE Write the word “careers” on the board and ask students what they think of when they see that word. Write their ideas on the board. Explain that a “career” is more than a job. It is an area where someone works for a long time. A person may have many jobs during a career. For example, someone with a career in education could start as a teacher, then become a principal, and then become a director of curriculum.

Ask students to give examples of books and TV shows that have characters who are looking for a job. Ask them to share some of the things these characters go through (e.g., searching job openings, writing a resume, going to interviews). Show the covers and titles of the four books in this set, and have students guess what each one is about. Explain that they are all about teens who are trying to figure out how to find the right career for them.

PARTNER SHARE Assign partners and have students talk about the kinds of careers that they would like to have. Encourage them to share which book in the set looks the most interesting to read.

Book: The Dream

SYNOPSIS This book explores the idea that there is more than one way to achieve a dream career and that sometimes dreams can shift when confronted with reality. Eighteen-year-old Rico's goal is to win Star Maker, a TV singing contest. He wants to be rich and famous and make his mom happy. But as the tryout date approaches, he realizes that what his mom really wants is to see him graduate and go to college. Rico has to make an important decision about the path he will take to achieve his dream.

The Dream

PREPARING TO READ Show students the cover of the book. Read them the following preview:

Star Maker. It is a TV singing contest, and it is all Rico can think about. He is sure the show is his path to being rich and famous. But this is Rico's senior year, and all his mom can talk about is college. Can Rico make his mom happy and pursue his dream?

Ask students to turn to a partner and talk about what they think will happen in this book based on the cover and the preview. Then ask for volunteers to tell the group some of their predictions.

READING SKILL Point out that most books let readers know what the main character is thinking about. Some books even take readers inside the mind of one or more characters. When this happens, the reader has to figure out what is really happening and what is just in the character's mind. Ask students how readers might be able to tell (e.g., things that are impossible in real life might show up in a character's thoughts or a book might use words like "what if" or "I think"). Show students the cover of The Dream. Explain that part of this story is based in reality and part of it goes inside the main character's dreams and daydreams. As students read, they should look for clues to decide whether what is happening is real or fantasy.

VOCABULARY LESSON This book includes a few words that are at a higher level than the rest of the book but are necessary for communicating the content. Teach these words before students read the story. Write each word on the board. If appropriate, have the students write each word on an index card, and then trace the letters as they say the word.

daydream good thoughts that distract people from what they are doing graduation an event where people who finish school get their diplomas guidance counselor a school employee who listens to students and gives them advice

Have students work with partners or small groups to come up with sentences using each of the vocabulary words. Ask students to share the sentences with the class.
