TIMELESS CLASSICS

NOTES TO THE TEACHER

THE NOVELS

Timeless Classics were expressly designed to help struggling readers gain access to some of the world’s greatest literature. While retaining the essence and stylistic “flavor” of the original, each novel has been expertly adapted to a reading level that never exceeds grade 4.0.

An ideal introduction to later investigations of the original works, Timeless Classics utilize a number of strategies to ensure the involvement of struggling readers: airy, uncomplicated page design; shortened sentences; easy-reading type style; elimination of archaic words and spellings; shortened total book length; and handsome illustrations.

To further engage struggling readers, some of our Timeless Classics titles are available in a new and exciting graphic format, which can bridge literacies and build complex reading skills—a perfect opportunity for differentiation.

THE STUDY GUIDES

The Timeless Classics Study Guides provide a wealth of reproducible support materials to help students extend the learning experience. Features include critical background notes on both the author and the times, character descriptions, chapter summaries, and eight “universal” exercises that may be used for any Timeless Classic or Saddleback Illustrated Classic.

In addition to the universal exercises, 26 title-specific activities are included to review, test, or enrich the student’s grasp of important vocabulary and concepts. These reproducible worksheets are designed to be used chapter-by-chapter as the student’s reading of the novel proceeds. At least two exercises are provided for each book chapter. One of the two always focuses on key vocabulary. The other may be a simple comprehension check or present an important literary concept.

Research shows that the most effective way to improve comprehension is to teach students strategies. The foundation of any comprehension strategy requires knowledge of the skills found in these activities including: main idea, noting details, drawing conclusions, finding the sequence, cause and effect, making inferences, and more. A two-page final exam is also included in every Timeless Classics Study Guide.

USING THE STUDY GUIDES

Before assigning any of the reproducible exercises, be sure your students each have a personal copy of the Glossary and the Facts About the Author and About the Times. By organizing the reading process in this way, you will be able to set a purpose for reading and activate prior knowledge. The Facts About the Author and About the Times lend themselves to any number of writing or research projects you may wish to assign. To further preview the novel, you may wish to review the Facts About the Characters. Students will also need to be familiar with many of the literary terms in order to complete the worksheets.

The title-specific exercises may be used as a springboard for class discussions and role-playing. Alternatively, you may wish to assign some exercises as homework and others during the closing minutes of a class period.

All exercises in this Guide are designed to accommodate independent study as well as group work. The occasional assignment of study partners or competitive teams often enhances interest and promotes creativity. Oral language activities, such as paraphrasing or summarizing a part of the story, provide an intervention opportunity to strengthen oral language skills and, in turn, strengthen reading skills.

H. G. WELLS

(1866–1946)

The first great writer of science fiction, Herbert George Wells, was born in Kent, England, in 1866. The son of a small tradesman and professional cricketer, Wells worked in a dry goods store and a drugstore before attending the College of Science in Kensington. After graduating, he taught science until 1893, when he began to write for a living.

Wells published his first book, The Time Machine, in 1895 when he was 29 years old. In the following two years, publication of The Island of Dr. Moreau and The Invisible Man firmly established his reputation in the literary world.

Besides his enormously popular science fiction, Wells is known for his satirical novels, such as Love and Mr. Lewisham, and his many popularized accounts of science and history, such as A Short History of the World and The Science of Life.

Wells was one of the most rigorous intellects of his time. Many of his writings express his strong belief in socialism, feminism, evolutionism, rationalism, and the advances of science. Much of his work was concerned with improving the living conditions of humankind. An outspoken critic of society, Wells himself was often criticized for his radical politics.

Wells became highly eccentric in later life. At the time of his death, he had reached a point of deep despair about human development. Yet even to this day, the progressive ideas he developed at the turn of the century are widely regarded as worthy goals for social and scientific advancement.

FACTS ABOUT THE CHARACTERS

THE NARRATOR

a writer. He is able to watch the Martians in action more than any other surviving human

THE NARRATOR'S WIFE

she becomes separated from her husband as the Martians attack

OGILVY

a well-known astronomer

THE CURATE

a whining, fearful man. As he comes in close contact with the Martians, he loses his mind

THE MARTIANS

very intelligent beings who plan to make Earth their new home. They use many ingenious machines to move around in the Earth's atmosphere

THE WAR OF THE WORLDS

CHAPTER SUMMARIES

CHAPTER 1

In the last part of the nineteenth century, Earth was being studied—by Martians. Mars was growing colder. In order to survive, the Martians needed a new place to live. They looked on Earth with cold envy. They saw the people of Earth as lowly animals, so they prepared to take Earth for themselves.

The first signs of the invasion were flashes of light coming from Mars. The narrator of the story learns about this phenomenon from his friend, a well-known astronomer named Ogilvy. Ogilvy had no idea what was coming toward Earth, nor did anyone else.

CHAPTER 2

The flashes of light coming from Mars turn out to be spacecraft. One of these landed near the narrator's home. Early the next morning, Ogilvy went to investigate. What he found was a huge cylinder. By afternoon, a crowd had gathered around it. Then the lid of the cylinder opened and a Martian crawled out. It was a horrid-looking thing the size of a big bear, with long, waving tentacles.

CHAPTER 3

The narrator watched as a group of men approached the Martians with a white flag. Suddenly a shaft of heat shot out and burned the men to death! The heat ray swept through the crowd, killing 40 people. The narrator ran off in a panic. But when he reached home, his confidence had returned. As he told his wife, the Martians could hardly move. Since Earth's gravity was so much stronger than the gravity on Mars, they were helpless. But he did not realize how intelligent the Martians were.

CHAPTER 4

Most people were not affected by the arrival of the Martians. They went about their business as if Mars did not exist. Meanwhile, the clever Martians worked constantly on their machines. A company of soldiers had just camped around the cylinder when the second cylinder fell to Earth.

CHAPTER 5

Fighting soon broke out against the Martians. The battle was so close to the narrator's home that he and his wife fled their home in Maybury, borrowed a horse and cart, and traveled to the nearby town of Leatherhead. Then, as the narrator returned the horse and cart, he saw several giant walking machines. He decided to return to Leatherhead at once and take his wife out of the country.

THE WAR OF THE WORLDS

CHAPTER 6

The narrator started walking toward Leatherhead. By a river, he and many others were caught in a battle between the troops and the Martians. One of the Martians was killed by a gunshot. Its metal armor crashed into the river and the heat ray went off, nearly boiling the water—and the narrator. Burned and sick, the narrator then escaped in a boat. Hours later, while walking along a road, he met a curate, who seemed to have had a mental breakdown.

CHAPTER 7

This chapter tells the story of the narrator's brother, a medical student in London. As hordes of refugees began pouring into London, the word spread: The Martians are coming! People panicked and raced away from the city as quickly as they could.

The brother, along with two women, escaped to the seashore and bought passage on a steamboat. Before long the steamboat was being threatened by three Martians. Then a warship called the Thunder Child came to the rescue. Unfortunately, the Thunder Child was destroyed in the battle, but was able to kill two Martians.

CHAPTER 8

The narrator returns to his own story. While he and the curate were hiding in an abandoned house, a Martian cylinder landed on it. They were trapped. As the narrator secretly watched the Martians, he learned they used different machines for different tasks.

CHAPTER 9

Trapped in the house for days, the narrator and the curate fought over their small supply of food.

Then the two men learned that the Martians were feeding on humans. This awful discovery made the curate go completely mad. He began talking very loudly. Terrified that the Martians would hear him, the narrator knocked out the crazed curate.

A Martian heard the noise. Its tentacle explored the men's hiding place and dragged the curate away.

CHAPTER 10

After 15 days, the narrator realized the Martians were gone. He walked to London, seeing only dead people. The land was silent. In London, he discovered many Martians—all dead. He realized that every Martian had been killed by earthly germs.

THE WAR OF THE WORLDS

CHAPTER 11

For three days, the narrator wandered around London, weeping and raving. Kind strangers took him in. Gently, they told him that Leatherhead had been destroyed. Yet when he returned home, he made a joyful discovery. His wife was alive!

EPILOGUE

The narrator thought that constant watch must be kept on Mars. Another attack was possible. The horror of the invasion was fresh in his mind. Though life all around him had returned to normal, he still felt strange and unsettled.
