Chapter 1

Deb was at her locker. Val was at her locker too. Val was Deb's best friend.

Val said, "Steve will be out of town this weekend. Do you want to do something Saturday afternoon?"

Steve was Val's boyfriend.

"Sure. What?" Deb said.

Val said, "I don't know. We can think about it."

"OK," Deb said.

Deb saw Ben. He was in her math class. And he was Steve's best friend.

Ben was very cute. Deb wished he would ask her for a date.

“Does Ben have a girlfriend?” Deb asked.

Val said, “Not that I know of. He did. But they broke up. And she dates someone else now.”

The girls hurried to their history class. It was their last class of the day. Miss Brent was their teacher.

The girls went to their desks. Val had to sit on the other side of the room. So she and Deb couldn’t sit together.

The bell rang. Miss Brent started class. She always started class on time.

“Today we will talk about what you had to read for homework. And we won’t read in the book,” Miss Brent said.

Deb was glad they wouldn’t read in the book. She didn’t read well. So she could read only a little of the history book. Her mom had read the homework to her.

Miss Brent called on Deb first. And Deb was able to answer what Miss Brent asked her.

Miss Brent said, “Good answer, Deb.”

That made Deb feel good.

Deb didn’t have to try to read the book. So the class went by fast for her.

It was almost time for the class to be over.

Miss Brent said, “Don’t forget you will have a test tomorrow. It will be a hard test. So you will need to study a lot for it.”

Deb always studied a lot for the tests.

She could not read most of what was on the tests. But Miss Brent taped the tests for her. So she did not have to know how to read them. And Miss Brent gave her more time on the tests when she needed it.

Miss Brent let Deb write very short answers. And she did not count off for spelling.

But Deb still did not do well on the tests. It was hard for her to remember what she had studied.

It was going to be a bad week for her. It always was when she had a history test.
