Feel It Fly

by PJ Gray

The class was silent.
The clock was loud.

Tick.
Tick.
Tick.

Ms. Law stood up.
"This is it. The big test.
You have one hour.
Begin."

Pam sat at her desk.
It was in the back.
She could see the whole room.

Tick. Tick. Tick.

A photograph of a classroom with students sitting at desks, writing. The image is partially obscured by a large, black, torn-edge text box. The text inside the box is white and teal. The background shows a student in the foreground with long dark hair, wearing a pink shirt, writing in a notebook. Other students are visible in the background, also writing at their desks.

Pam looked at her test.
She was done.
No one else was.

Tick. Tick. Tick.

Pam looked over her work.
She felt good.
The test was not so bad.
