Woof! Woof! Woof!

Dogs bark.

Their howls fill the air.

A woman looks out the window.

It is too dark to see.

Something shrieks.

The dogs growl.

These sounds scare the woman.

There is something out there.

What could it be?

The woman walks outside.
She sees something.
It is in the woods.
The thing moves.
Is it an animal?

Maybe it is a bobcat.

No, it is too big.

The woman goes inside.

She hides in bed.

But she is too scared to sleep.

The dogs cry.

Then they stop.

All is silent.

Rap! Rap! Rap!

It is morning.

Someone is at the woman's door.

She opens it.

Police officers stand there.

What happened last night?

Did she hear any sounds?

The woman mentions the dogs.

"I saw a large cat," she adds.

The officers shake their heads.

They tell her the news.

Four dogs were killed.

Their jaws were broken.

Blood was drained from their bodies.

The woman gasps.

"Was it the Beast of Bladenboro?" she asks.

"Did it strike again?"

"There's no such thing," one officer says.

The woman does not believe him.

The woman is sure.

She knows the beast killed the dogs.

Did it?

Is the Beast of Bladenboro real?

We may never know for sure.

Chapter 2 MONSTER HUNTERS

Every place seems to have a monster.

New Jersey has the Jersey Devil.

There is also the Wolfman of Chestnut Mountain.

Bigfoot and Yeti are legends.

Mothman is too.

Have you heard the stories?

Monsters come in all shapes.

Some look like apes.

Many have big fangs.

A few can fly.

Others slither on the ground.

People see the monsters.

They tell stories about them.

But nobody has ever caught one.

You can watch movies about monsters.
There are books about them too.
But are any monsters real?

People want to know.

Some even chase monsters.

Their goal is to find them.

They are monster hunters.

Monster hunters look in forests.
They also look in the jungle.
Some search swamps.

Loren Coleman is a monster hunter.
He looks for Bigfoot.
Bigfoot is a big, hairy monster.
People say it lives in forests.

John "Tapper" Tice hunts monsters too.
He looks for them in West Virginia.
Tice has a TV show.
His goal is to prove monsters exist.
Catching one would do this.
Would you want to catch a monster?
